Cover Photo: Theana vietnamica Aver. - monotype genus of orchids was found by young Vietnamese botanist - MSc. Pham Van The in Hoa Binh province of north-western Vietnam near border with Laos in March 2011. The plant belongs to subtribe Vandinae Rchb.f. (Aeridinae Pfitz) and has, probably, closest relation to Ascochilus Ridl. This miniature taxonomically very isolated canopy epiphyte has probably very limited distribution in northern part of eastern Indochina. It was discovered during international expedition organized by Vietnamese non-governmental organization - Center for Plant Conservation with support of USA NGS and AOS (full text see pages 127-152). Photographed by Leonid V. Averyanov.
